Saratoga County

A Brief History

By Lauren Roberts, County Historian

Saratoga County was formed from lands previously belonging to Albany County on February 7, 1791. These lands included most of the Kayaderosseras Patent granted by Queen Anne to 13 of her “loving subjects” in 1708. Saratoga County occupies an important geographical position; bounded on the north and east by the Hudson River and the south by the Mohawk River, the confluence of these two great waterways have made the County a prime destination in times of both war and peace. The northwestern portion of the county is a mountainous area located within the Adirondack Park, while many important rivers and streams such as the Sacandaga and Kayaderosseras dominate the fertile valley areas. The diverse geography of this County has made it appealing to many different people who have chosen to call Saratoga County home.

The Mohawks of the Iroquois Confederacy used this area as hunting and fishing grounds before the Europeans settled here. Many waterways and well-worn Native American trails were used during the French and Indian War (1755-1763) and during the American Revolution. In the Fall of 1777 British troops led by General John Burgoyne were headed south along the Hudson River when they encountered a large number of Americans entrenched at Bemis Heights. After two battles, the Americans were victorious and General Burgoyne surrendered to the Americans, led by General Horatio Gates on October 17, 1777. The Battle of Saratoga became famously known as the turning point of the American Revolution.

Saratoga County sits on a geological fault line from which mineral springs push forth to the surface. These mineral waters were thought to have healing powers by the Native Americans and eventually became a much sought-after resource for European settlers here as well. Ballston Spa became a well-known destination for visitors hoping that the medicinal effects of the mineral springs would heal their diverse ailments. Hotels and railroads were built to accommodate the multitudes of summer visitors. Eventually, Saratoga Springs would trump Ballston Spa as the “Queen of the Spas” and enjoyed much prosperity through the Victorian Era. Summer visitors came to Saratoga Springs to “see and be seen” by others. Along with the various drink halls, fountains, and bathhouses, Saratoga Lake and the Saratoga Race Track became other popular destinations for those visiting the area during summer months.

Saratoga County is filled with various museums, historic sites and parks that preserve the rich history of this area. Both visitors and residents alike enjoy the diverse environmental and historic attractions Saratoga County has to offer.

Focus On Saratoga County Town of Charlton

In 1792, the year after Saratoga County was founded, the New York State Legislature divided "Balls Town" into four parts forming three new towns: Galway, Milton and, in the southwest corner of the county, Charlton. Previously Charlton had been called "New Freehold" by its settlers who were mostly immigrants from Freehold, New Jersey. Why the name Charlton was chosen, or where it came from, is not known. It may have been for John Charlton, a squatter already living in the area when early settlers arrived. The Town had close to 1,500 residents and held its first Town meeting on April first.

First settlers in the southern part of West Charlton were the Gonzales, a Spanish Huguenot family farming there in 1770. Starting in 1774, Episcopalian and Presbyterian families from Freehold, NJ and downstate NY settled eastern Charlton. Settlers from Scotland arrived in West Charlton in 1775. French Huguenots, Dutch, Irish and others followed. Research on northern West Charlton shows land first deeded from Native Americans in 1708 and a stage route through a busy hamlet during the 1700s, but the date of first settlement there remains to be established.

From the start, agriculture has been Charlton's main industry. Several hamlets with a variety of mills, shops, taverns, schools, churches and cemeteries formed along the Town's waterways and stage routes. These community centers came to be known as New Freehold (Charlton Hamlet), Slab Troy (Little Troy), Liberty Three Corners (West Charlton), Scotch Street (Scotch Church), Blue Corners, Holbrook Corners and Harmony Corners. In 1865, Charlton's population had changed little: 1,589 people living in 333 dwellings.

Charlton may be considered small in size but is vast in agricultural resources and has been fortunate to retain its rural beauty. Agriculture continues as the town's main industry.

According to the 2010 Census, Charlton's population has increased 4.5% since the 2000 census; the Town now has 4,133 residents. Families represent 84.3% of the population giving Charlton a higher than average concentration of families. Median age for residents is 42.2 which is older than the average age in the U.S. Five public school districts serve the Town. Charlton has six postal ZIP codes spread across three counties. Three of seven churches remain, and there is a chapel at the Charlton School (a residential school for young women with special needs). There are three fire districts in Charlton as well as five parks, and eleven cemeteries. A Town Board consisting of a supervisor and four councilmen meet twice monthly. Charlton does not have a Town tax.

Much of Charlton's population increase came with residential areas built in the mid-twentieth century in the southeastern part of town. The stagecoach routes that connected the hamlets were straightened and paved; and now all of the mills are gone. Few shops and one tavern remain. Land sub-divisions and property sales throughout the Town have brought many more new homes and residents.

Education has always been important to the people of Charlton. In the late 1700s citizens helped to found Union College to educate leaders of the new United States. Three well-known first graduates of the College were from Charlton. Gideon Hawley, successful lawyer and businessman, founded New York State's public education system. In response to his 1812 New York State Law for the establishment of common schools, Charlton setup ten one-room school districts so that no child had to walk more than a mile to school. Joseph Sweetman, a Charlton minister for seventy-one years, spread the Presbyterian Church throughout the Northeast and into Canada. John W. Taylor, Attorney-at-Law, served as both New York Senator and Assemblyman, and was twice Speaker of the United States House of Representatives in its formative years.

There is Town-wide interest in preserving Charlton's heritage. Presently eighteen historic markers and other signage mark places of importance. The Charlton Historic District, New York State's first rural hamlet historic district and Scotch Church Historic Site are listed on the New York State and National Registers of Historic Places. They may also be found on related websites. The Historic District has a Historic Main Street Improvement Plan, and the Town acknowledges significance of its history in the Comprehensive Plan.

For fifteen years students and faculty advisors of the Burnt Hills-Ballston Lake Richard O'Rourke Middle School have helped to place flags at veterans' graves in Charlton cemeteries for Memorial Day. More than 240 graves receive flags. The Charlton Historical Society sponsors an annual Memorial Day ceremony in Gideon Hawley Park, which is followed by an annual Founder's Day celebration, during the first weekend of June. There are special community activities, fireworks, and a Sunday afternoon parade. The Sons and Daughters of Liberty Ancient Fifes and Drums were founded in Charlton in 1975 and continue its unending commitment to portraying the early history of our nation through music and historical re-enactment.

2004 saw a significant step to permanently preserve and protect farmland, forests, and riverbanks in Charlton. Acreage was donated as a conservation easement to Saratoga P.L.A.N. to protect Charlton's landscape heritage to help retain its rural character.

In 2006, the Town broke ground and built a new Town Hall in the Historic District. The new Town Hall was built with funds that previous Town Boards and the current Board had put aside over the years specifically for this purpose. Care was taken to safeguard historic and archaeological resources, and to preserve community character. The interior of the old Town Hall has been somewhat updated and is now used as a Community Center...the outside of the building remains the same.

The Town has an 'Explore Charlton' weekend every September.
